Długa Street

Długa in Gdańsk is one of the most picturesque and historical streets in Poland. Stretching from the Green Gate to the Golden Gate, it is over half a kilometre long and is steeped in history dating back to the Middle Ages. Beautiful historic tenement houses, representing different architectural styles, create a unique atmosphere. Długa Street turns into Długi Targ, the second important street in Gdańsk, filled with monuments and interesting places.

WESTERPLATTE

Westerplatte - a peninsula was formed in 1845-1847 in Gdańsk at the mouth of the Martwa Wisła into the Bay of Gdańsk.

This is the area of the former Military Transit Depot. It is a symbol of the outbreak of World War II. Polish defenders stationed at the Transit Depot at that time were the first to experience the attack of the Third Reich. Pursuant to the Regulation of the President of the Republic of Poland of August 22, 2003, the "Battlefield of Westerplatte" was recognized as a historical monument. It is a symbol of the prowess and heroism of the Polish soldiers during World War II. Of the many famous battle sites from World War II in Poland, only Westerplatte has retained its original name. The "Westerplatte" Tourist Trail begins at the place where the passenger marina for the "White Fleet" ships is located at the Obrońców Westerplatte Quay and ends at the mound at the foot of the Monument to the Defenders of the Coast, but you can also start the tour from any object. It takes about two hours to complete the entire trail.

House of Artus

Dwór Artusa, also known as the House of Artus, is a historic building in Gdańsk, located in the Old Town, by the Long Market. It is one of the most recognizable places in the city, filled with a rich history and culture.

Construction:

Dwór Artusa was erected in the 14th century, initially serving as a gathering place for merchants in Gdańsk, where trade decisions were made, and various ceremonies were organized. The current form of the building was shaped in the 15th century.

Name:

The name "Artus" is associated with the knight Arthur, a legendary Arthurian hero. Some accounts suggest that the manor could have been a meeting place for both knights and merchants.

Architecture:

Dwór Artusa represents the Gothic style, with a characteristic façade adorned with architectural details, including tracery and sculptures.

Tourist Attraction:

Dwór Artusa attracts tourists due to its architecture and historical significance. Many visitors come here to admire the atmosphere of this historic place.
